Learning and development

“Delivering Solutions with the TT Audit Approach”. It enables us to make a positive difference by providing an effective and efficient audit that will maximize the utilization of the professional resources and expertise.

The audit approach is based on understanding the client’s operations, industry and business environment, so as to better identify and assess the risks affecting the clients.

Objective

The TT Audit Approach contains a process to better manage client expectations to deliver solutions that would make a difference to a client going forward. Understanding and exceeding the clients' needs and expectations are expected practice norms.

The learning objective is to develop the people to a high competent level and in good self-discipline in order to meet and exceed the clients' needs and expectations.

Mode of learning

We are delicate to develop and deliver in-house training courses, as a cost-effective means of providing tailored trainings. Such structured learning programmes are obviously designed to foster the competences of human resources so as to meet the specific needs of the clients.

The learning provided ranges from a one-day seminar to a fully integrated learning programme. We aim not just to bridge skills gaps and to promote individual competence and confidence, but either directly or through course participants to facilitate the firm in developing the audit and advisory services and framework, and meeting the clients' needs and expectations.

Structured learning

Structured learning programmes will be devised and delivered including induction course, a series of seminars on audit approach, and workshops/seminars on specific topics. We will also organize unstructured audit forum to address all aspects of auditing skills and accounting knowledge.

Structured learning

However it is provided, all our training is practical, participative, authoritative, up-to-date and founded on accepted principles, recognized professional standards, international best practice and the trainers' own wide experience and skills. Considerable use is made of group work, case studies and real-life examples. Extensive material is provided in the form of handouts and course materials.

Structured courses

The structured courses includes:

- Audit methodology
- Client acceptance process including EP200
- Audit in respective accounts balances or transactions
- Revenue recognition
